1994-95 ATLANTA HAWKS SEASON PROSPECTUS

by Lenny Wilkens

When my staff and I came to Atlanta from Cleveland a year ago, I really didn't know what to expect from a team that was considered selfish, unwilling to defend anyone and considered underachievers. It was important to me to reverse those feelings among our fans, instill pride among our players, and create an improved product for our organization. Needless to say we were pleasantly surprised with the development of the Hawks last year, and we are looking forward to building upon that this season.

With several players involved with free agency (Danny Manning, Craig Ehlo, Duane Ferrell, Ennis Whatley and Paul Graham), we were hopeful of retaining some of them while understanding it could be difficult because of the nature of free agency.

Right away last season, I discovered this team had a tremendous desire to learn and execute what was needed to make us a more competitive team. After struggling early, we showed evidence of better things to come and that was proven with the franchise-record 14-game winning streak. When I was in Cleveland, my feeling was that this team played better on the road than at home. Well, I wanted to reverse that attitude in a big way. Let's defend our home court and show opponents that we will play hard at the Omni, and make it difficult for them for the full 48 minutes.

As a result, our 36 home victories established a new team record in Atlanta, and contributed greatly to our franchise-tying 57 wins, which gave us the best record in the Eastern Conference and the Central Division title. These records may be difficult to duplicate this season. However, the team learned how to win and what kind of commitment is needed as we take our next step.

We played exciting basketball within a team concept this year, and several players benefitted from those efforts. I was pleased for Mookie Blaylock, who made the All-Star team and earned first team All-Defensive honors for the first time in his career. With Stacey Augmon at the other guard spot, it gave us one of the toughest tandems defensively in the NBA, and while Stacey had his best season thus far with the Hawks, it is important that he continues to develop his all-around game offensively.

Among our frontline starters, Kevin Willis and Jon Koncak provided productive seasons before injuries limited them during the second round of the playoffs. Their leadership is important to our success in the future, and I'm looking forward to their continued improvement in 1994-95.

With the addition of Ken Norman, we've gained a player who can play both forward positions, provide points off the bench, rebound effectively and defend for us. He is a proven veteran in this league and to add that kind of talent to our club was too good an opportunity to pass up.

And as we approach the 1994-95 season, we will continue to improve our team any way we possibly can as we begin defense of our Division championship, and challenge for the NBA title.

A LOOK BACK AT 1993-94

Mookie Blaylock finished 3rd in the NBA in steals (2.62) and assists (9.7)

* The 57 victories last season by Lenny Wilkens and the Atlanta Hawks equalled the best-ever in franchise history. The previous record of 57-25 occurred during the 1986-87 season.

* Last year's Hawks squad set a new Atlanta record for most home victories in a season with 36, surpassing the previous mark of 35 (during 1986-87) while finishing one win shy of tying the team record for road wins (22, 1986-87).

* The Hawks held opponents under 100 points 58 times last year, including a team record streak of 11 games (March 9-29) ... The 58 times was an Atlanta Hawk record, surpassing the 48 times set in 1981-82 ... The opponents' scoring average of 96.2 ppg was a new Atlanta record, snapping the old standard of 100.5 points allowed during the 1981-82 season.

* Atlanta forward Kevin Willis finished the regular season campaign with the fourth-highest number of double-doubles (points/rebounds) with 55, trailing only Shaquille O'Neal (65), Hakeem Olajuwon (62) and Karl Malone (58).

* Hawks guard Mookie Blaylock earned his second career triple-double (and second in Atlanta) last season ... He posted his first with the Hawks on November 27 against Philadelphia with 15 points, 10 rebounds and 10 assists, and recorded his second in Atlanta on March 26 against Miami with a 17 point/14 assist/11 rebound effort ... He added two more triple-doubles during the playoffs ... He was also second on the team in multiple output games with 42 double-doubles.

* In 41 home games last year, the Hawks averaged 13,335 fans (546,749 total) ... The previous season Atlanta had averaged 11,981 fans (491,229 total) ... On the season, the Hawks had 11 sellouts at the Omni ... After the All-Star break, attendance increased steadily with a total of 234,040 fans in 16 games (14,628) and six sellouts.

* Atlanta was 35-15 in back-to-back sets last season, with an 18-7 record after the first game and a 17-8 mark following the second contest ... The Hawks played 25 back-to-back games last year -- the most in the NBA -- along with Charlotte and Minnesota.

Stacey Augmon joined Blaylock to form one of the top defensive backcourts in the league.

Craig Ehlo made a positive impact in his first year in Atlanta after seven in Cleveland.

* Lenny Wilkens' 57 wins were the most victories ever in franchise history by a first-year Hawks head coach ... The previous mark was held by Paul Seymour, when he coached the St. Louis Hawks to a 51-28 mark in 1960-61.

* Wilkens' 57 wins also tied his personal best as an NBA head coach ... He also had 57 wins with Cleveland in 1988-89 and 1991-92.

* The Hawks finished with the NBA's second-best home record at 36-5, trailing Seattle's league-leading 37-4.

* Despite the fact that the Hawks averaged only 101.4 points last season (down from 107.5 the previous year), they held the opponents to 96.2 ppg (down from 108.4) ... The Hawks also improved their shot-blocking average by rejecting 5.48 per game (up from 3.39 in 1992-93, last in the NBA).

* With the training camp goal of stressing improved defensive play, Hawks coach Lenny Wilkens certainly accomplished that objective ... Atlanta's defensive field goal percentage ranked 8th in the league (after finishing 26th the previous year), and the 96.2 ppg allowed was the 4th-best effort in the NBA last year ... The Hawks also finished second in the NBA in turnovers forced with 1,465 (17.9 tpg).

*Atlanta finished second in the NBA in steals with 915 (behind Seattle's 1,053) ... The total was one short of tying the team record of 916 set in 1977-78.

* The Hawks swept the season series from five Eastern Conference opponents last season (Boston (4-0), Detroit (4-0), Milwaukee (5-0), Philadelphia (4-0), and Washington (4-0)) ... Against Western Conference opponents, Atlanta swept Dallas (2-0), Minnesota (2-0) and Sacramento (2-0) ... The only team to sweep the series from Atlanta last season was Golden State (2-0).

Kevin Willis finished 3rd in the NBA in rebounding at 12.0 per game ... Willis has now averaged 13.5 boards over the last three seasons.

ATLANTA HAWKS COMMUNITY AFFAIRS

ATLANTA HAWKS FOUNDATION

(Founded in 1987)

The Atlanta Hawks Foundation is dedicated to the betterment of Atlanta's youth -- to enhance their quality of life and encourage them to strive to reach attainable goals.

The Atlanta Hawks Foundation was founded in 1987 as the non-profit wing of the Atlanta Hawks organization. The Foundation cares for Atlanta's children by overseeing a broad range of community-based and school-based programs in Atlanta and throughout Georgia. The Foundation also makes both monetary and in-kind donations to community organizations, while also encouraging all members of the Hawks organization to play an active role in its programs. As prominent members of the Atlanta community, Hawks players, coaches and personnel make special efforts to give back to the community. Head Coach Lenny Wilkens, a strong advocate of his players taking an active role in community affairs, truly supports the Foundation's mission.

SHARING A VISION - BUILDING A FUTURE

ATLANTA HAWKS FOUNDATION
AVERY FINE FRAMING & ART
THE ATLANTA PROJECT - DOUGLASS CLUSTER

Proir to the 1993-94 season, the Hawks organization repaired and remodeled the home of Sallie Palmer, a resident of Atlanta's Douglass Cluster.

These ongoing community affairs activities reflect the Foundation's mission to help Atlanta's youth take off into a bright future by setting attainable goals and striving to reach them. From Success Seminars and Special Olympics clinics to the NBA's Stay in School program and visits to children's hospitals, Hawks players and personnel teach children that the sky's the limit.

Individual and corporate donations of both time and money are the backbone of the Foundation. As such, the Foundation also actively raises money through events and donations to support its programs. The largest fund-raising event is the annual Foundation Dinner.

Since its inception in 1987, the Atlanta Hawks Foundation has worked with hundreds of community organizations throughout metropolitan Atlanta, providing them with over one million dollars in donations and in-kind services (i.e., tickets, merchandise, player appearances, etc.).

SUCCESS SEMINARS

General Manager Pete Babcock, with the help of high-profile individuals from the community, conducts a series of Success Seminars in Atlanta-area high schools. The seminars are designed to encourage students to reach for the stars, work hard to achieve their goals and stay in school. The panel members talk candidly about their own personal and professional successes and failures -- they tell personal stories of growing up, their fears in high school and what contributed to their successes.

THE ATLANTA HAWKS/NBA STAY IN SCHOOL PROGRAM

The NBA created the Stay in School program in 1989 to address the critical issue of high school dropouts. This national initiative utilizes NBA players -- who are among the most recognized and respected sports heroes -- to urge young people to stay in school and complete their high school education.

Locally, over 50,000 middle school students in the Atlanta city schools and surrounding county school systems have participated in the Atlanta Hawks Stay in School program sponsored by AVIA. Current and retired Hawks players and Dance Team members make visits to schools throughout the year to talk about the fundamentals of the Stay in School program, the three A's -- Attitude, Attendance and Achievement. The presenters also share personal experiences about how staying in school has helped them achieve the goals they set for themselves.

To reward students that have shown a significant improvement in the three A's, there is a School JAMboree at the Omni in the spring. The JAMboree features Hawks players, the Hawks Dance Team, Harry the Hawk and live entertainment.

There's also a Three-Point Essay Contest which challenges students to write an essay about the importance of the three A's. Ten winners are selected to attend a Hawks game with on-court recognition at halftime.

Students from metro Atlanta schools participate in the Hawks' annual Stay in School program.

"I LIKE ME BECAUSE I'M DRUG FREE"

Harry the Hawk often swoops into Atlanta's elementary schools with his "I Like Me Because I'm Drug Free" education program sponsored by Champion Products. His message to defeat drug use is a unique three-point one: education, recreation, physical fitness.

These are the keys to staying drug free. Since Harry assumed his role as the winged warrior of drug prevention in 1990, over 250,000 students have benefitted from the program.

HOLIDAY VISITS:

The Hawks always take time out during the holiday season to share their time and spread holiday cheer around the Atlanta community. From organizing a toy drive and adopting some of Georgia's needy children to team visits to Eggleston Children's Hospital at Emory University and Hughes Spalding Children's Hospital, Hawks players, their wives and team personnel give the gifts that truly embody the holiday spirit of caring and good cheer.

Atlanta Hawks' wives decorate a Christmas tree at the annual Eggleston Children's Hospital's Festival of Trees.

THE LADY HAWKS:

Under the leadership of Marilyn Wilkens, the Lady Hawks (the Atlanta Hawks wives association) are true partners with their husbands as they too participate in a wide variety of community activities. The wives come together around the holidays to donate toys and gifts to students at the Hawks' adopted schools, and they annually team up to decorate a tree at the Eggleston Children's Hospital Festival of Trees. The wives also act as a wing of the NBA Wives Save Lives Program, working to educate the Atlanta community on the early detection and prevention of breast cancer.

SPECIAL OLYMPICS CLINIC:

For three consecutive years, the Atlanta Hawks have conducted a clinic for athletes and coaches of the Georgia Special Olympics basketball teams. Hawks players and coaches lead clinics, skill drills and even participate in 5-on-5 games with the special olympians.

BUILDING A DREAM:

Turner Broadcasting System and the Atlanta Hawks are longtime community partners with The Atlanta Project's Douglass Cluster. Hawks players, personnel and coaches teamed up with volunteers from TBS and Avery Fine Framing & Art to start the season by repairing a home -- painting walls, clearing the yard, repairing the roof, fixing screens, etc.

MAGICAL WEEKEND:

Since its inception in 1991, the Atlanta Hawks Magical Weekend has grown to be an essential fund-raising tool for the Foundation. The tournament, which consists of a scramble golf tournament, a tennis round-robin and a pre-event kick-off celebration, raises money each year for programs of the Atlanta Hawks Foundation.

"It's important for us to give back to the community, and what better way than to encourage and support today's youth. They will become tomorrow's leaders."
-Lenny Wilkens

THE ATLANTA HAWKS AVIA DANCE TEAM

Now in their fifth season, the Atlanta Hawks Avia Dance team members perform dynamic routines that liven up the Omni floor and energize the crowd at Hawks home game. Under the direction of new choreographer Jimmy Locust, the Atlanta Hawks Avia Dance team is taking it to a new level -- with routines ranging from Broadway musicals to Hip Hop to R&B and even some classical favorites.

But dance team activities don't stop on the court, members also participate in various community activities, supporting the Hawks community affairs programs. From "I Like Me Because I'm Drug Free" and "Stay in School" assemblies to working with local charities including the Georgia Special Olympics, Brain Tumor Foundation and the Starlight Foundation, dance team members serve as ambassadors for the Hawks organization in the Atlanta community.

FRONT OFFICE

Owner, Atlanta Hawks, Ltd.

R.E. (Ted) Turner III, President and Chairman of the Board of Turner Broadcasting System, Inc. (TBS), the parent company of the Atlanta Hawks, is well known for innovation and foresight in the cable television industry. Under his leadership, Turner Broadcasting has grown into the leading supplier of entertainment and news programming for the basic cable television industry in the United States and a major distributor of programming to broadcasters throughout the world.

In addition to the Hawks, major subsidiaries of TBS include: TBS SuperStation, Turner Network Television (TNT), Cable News Network (CNN), HEADLINE NEWS, CNN International, SportSouth, Turner Program Services, Turner Entertainment Company, Turner Home Entertainment, TNT Latin America, Turner International, Turner Publishing, World Championship Wrestling, Major League Baseball's Atlanta Braves, Hanna-Barbera, Inc., the Cartoon Network, Cartoon Network Latin America, TNT and Cartoon Network (Europe) and Turner Classic Movies.

Foreseeing the potential of satellite and cable technology over 20 years ago, Turner forged a new frontier in the television industry. He transformed a small UHF television station in Atlanta into the world's first "superstation" by beaming the station's signal via satellite to cable systems across the U.S. Because of their national exposure on TBS, the Hawks have fans in all 50 states.

Turner became owner of the Braves on January 14, 1976, and one year later (January 3, 1977), the Hawks. His ownership of both teams has helped bring stability to the Atlanta sports scene, and his willingness to do what must be done for success has made both franchises winners, as the Braves captured their second straight National League Championship in 1992 and second consecutive appearance in the World Series, while the Hawks earned their third Central Division title under Turner's direction last season.

Turner's enthusiasm for sports and improved international relations led him to conceive the Goodwill Games and, in partnership with what was then the USSR, organize the quadrennial, summer, multi-sport, international competition. The inaugural Goodwill Games were held in July 1986 in Moscow, and were followed by the 1990 Games in Seattle, Washington. This past summer, TBS co-sponsored the 1994 Games in St. Petersburg, Russia, with the 1998 Games scheduled to take place in New York City.

Turner revolutionized television news with the July 1, 1980 creation of CNN, the first 24-hour all-news television station. In addition to providing in-depth live coverage and analysis of breaking events and comprehensive newscasts, CNN also offers a full range of programs covering the latest in business, weather, sports, entertainment, health and science news. HEADLINE NEWS was launched in 1982 to complement CNN's in-depth news coverage with concise, 30-minute newscasts continuously updated 24 hours a day.

Another of Turner's contributions to the cable industry was the record-breaking launch of TNT as cable's premier network. With a variety of high-quality, original programming, TNT is seen in more than 57 million homes. The service is home to many of Hollywood's greatest titles and high-profile sporting events, including the National Basketball Association, the National Football League and the 1994 Winter Olympics.

Turner's involvement in sports programming took another step forward with the launch of SportSouth, which debuted on August 29, 1990. This southeastern regional network offers Atlanta Hawks basketball, Atlanta Braves baseball and Charlotte Hornets basketball, college basketball, football, and baseball, auto racing, volleyball, golf, tennis and other major sporting events. A joint venture with Scripps Howard and TCI, the network is available in Alabama, Georgia, Kentucky, Mississippi, Tennessee, South Carolina, and parts of North Carolina.

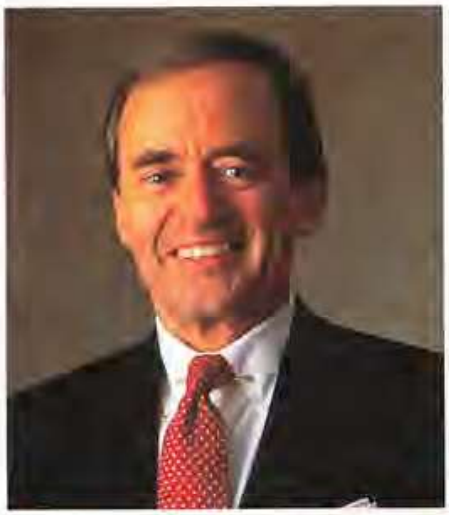
Additional subsidiaries of Turner Broadcasting include Turner Program Services, formed in 1981, as the Company's syndication arm, and Turner Home Entertainment, started in 1987 to serve the home video and product-licensing markets.

In December 1991, Turner acquired the entertainment assets of Hanna-Barbera Productions, Inc., including their 3,000-episode library, distribution rights and production facility. The Hanna-Barbera collection includes such popular characters as the Flintstones, Yogi Bear and the Jetsons.

Turner is an active environmentalist and has received numerous civic and industry awards and honors, including being named TIME Magazine's 1991 Man of the Year. He also is known as a superior yachtsman, having won national and world sailing titles, including a successful defense of the 1977 America's Cup, the 1979 Fastnet Trophy and four Yachtsmen of the Year Awards. He is married to actress/businesswoman Jane Fonda.

Turner was born November 19, 1938 in Cincinnati, Ohio. He attended Brown University in Providence, Rhode Island, where he was Commodore of the Yacht Club and vice president of the Debating Union.

Currently, Turner is a member of the board of directors of the National Cable Television Association and Tele-Communications Inc. (TCI). In addition, he sits on the boards of the Martin Luther King Center for Nonviolent Change and the Greater Yellowstone Coalition, and the International Founders Council of the Smithsonian Museum of the American Indian.



MICHAEL GEARON

Chairman, Board of Directors

What was supposed to be a two-week stay in September 1977 for Michael Gearon has developed into an active role with the Atlanta franchise. The 60-year-old Gearon continues the tasks he assumed in 1986 as the Hawks' Chairman of the Board of Directors.

In his 18th year with the club, he remains the Hawks' representative on the NBA Board of Governors, and for two seasons (1977-79), Gearon served as team president and general manager.

During his stint as general manager, he engineered the trades that brought Tom McMillen and the late Terry Furlow to Atlanta while overseeing a team that made the NBA Playoffs in each of his two seasons as GM. With the acquisition of Dan Roundfield, Gearon's efforts paid off as Roundfield earned three All-Star Game selections.

Before his association with the Hawks, Gearon built one of the top real estate development companies in the United States, Gearon and Company, which implemented and executed the concept of office parks.

Three well-known Gearon projects in the Atlanta area include Executive Park, Perimeter Center, and Coastal States, and through that association Gearon and Company became known as one of America's quality development companies.

In the early '70s, Gearon sold his interest in the development company to his partners in order to spend more time with his family and to travel. His association with Ted Turner through joint business ventures led to his accepting the position with the Hawks in 1977.

A courtside regular, and perhaps the Hawks' most ardent supporter, J. Michael Gearon is the father of three children, Tierney, Michael Jr., and Timothy. He and his wife Kin make their home in the northeast Atlanta area.

STAN KASTEN

President

With one of sports' most-accomplished and high-level backgrounds, Stan Kasten, 42, begins his 18th season with the Atlanta Hawks. In addition to his present position as President of the Hawks, Kasten has also served as President of the Atlanta Braves and TBS Vice President for Sports Teams since 1986.

The NBA's only back-to-back Executive of the Year (1986 and 1987), Kasten began his career as legal counsel for both the Hawks and Braves in 1976, before he was named Assistant General Manager of the Hawks, a position he held for two seasons (1977-79).

In November 1979 he became the youngest General Manager in NBA annals at the age of 27, and held the position for 11 1/2 seasons, until he hired former Denver executive Pete Babcock as his replacement in February 1990. Under his direction, the Hawks made tremendous strides on the court and at the gate over the latter half of the 1980's, as the team posted four straight 50-win seasons and playoff berths, and set team records in attendance.

His aggressiveness as General Manager proved beneficial in many of his dealings with other NBA clubs, which include the acquisition and signing of Dominique Wilkins in 1982, while sending two players (John Drew and Freeman Williams) and cash to Utah, obtaining Rory Sparrow from New Jersey in 1981 for a fourth-round pick, and the rights to Antoine Carr, Cliff Levingston and two future picks from Detroit in exchange for Dan Roundfield in 1984.

In a surprising, yet beneficial move in 1984-85, Kasten engineered the move of 12 Atlanta home games to New Orleans, which resulted in more than $1 million to the franchise.

Active in international competition in his role with TBS, he was instrumental in the development of the four-city American/Soviet All-Star team tour that brought American and Soviet players together on the same team for the first time, and in the summer of 1988, the Hawks were the first NBA team to visit the U.S.S.R.

Kasten, who has served on the NBA's Marketing Committee, Player Pension Committee and Expansion Committee, is also a member of the Hawks' Board of Directors, a member of the NBA Board of Governors, and currently serves on the NBA Labor Committee.

In addition to his responsibilities with the Braves, he serves as chairman of the Player Personal Development Committee and on the Labor/Management Committee. Ironically, Kasten's association with owner Ted Turner came as a result of baseball. They became acquainted at a Braves-Cardinals game in 1976 in St. Louis, when Kasten was celebrating his graduation from law school with a tour of Major League baseball parks. Months later he joined both clubs as legal counsel.

Born February 1, 1952 in Lakewood, New Jersey, Kasten attended Rutgers University before transferring to New York University (NYU) where he graduated in 1973 with a degree in psychology, earned Magna Cum Laude honors and was chosen Phi Beta Kappa. He received a Juris Doctor degree from Columbia Law School in 1976.

Stan Kasten and his wife Helen live in Sandy Springs with their four children, Alana, Corey, Sherry, and Jay. He serves on the Board of Directors of the Sports Lawyers Association.

LEE DOUGLAS

Executive Vice President

The commitment shown towards the Hawks is evident in the person of Lee Douglas, a longtime employee who was rewarded with the appointment to the position of Executive Vice President in November 1989 by team president Stan Kasten.

Entering his 17th season with the Hawks, Douglas has served in many different capacities with the club, with his current responsibilities including the direction of the business, marketing, media and community relations, broadcasting and ticket operations.

Since March 1992, Douglas has also been involved with the Atlanta Braves in an advisory capacity, assisting team president Stan Kasten as a Vice President.

Instrumental in arranging Atlanta's 55-game (non-national network) television package with local Atlanta affiliate WGNX-TV and Turner's regional sports station, SportSouth, he was heavily involved with the Hawks' 1994-95 marketing campaign with Atlanta ad agency Fitzgerald and Company.

In addition to those duties, he has spent time on the Board of Directors of the Atlanta Hawks Foundation since its formation seven years ago. The Foundation's responsibilities have included a yearly Benefit Dinner and Auction, a localized version of the Stay In School and the Harry the Hawk "I Like Me Because I'm Drug Free" programs.

Douglas has also served a two-year stint on the inaugural Marketing Advisory Board of NBA Properties. That Advisory Board was instrumental in forming the guidelines for team usage of tradmarks in the local marketplace.

Since joining the Hawks in 1978, the 42-year-old Douglas has held positions as sales representative, director of sales, director of marketing, vice president/marketing, and vice president/assistant general manager until his most recent position.

A 1974 graduate (industrial management) of Georgia Tech, he earned his MBA in 1978 from Georgia State University.

Douglas and his wife Nancy live in Stone Mountain with their two children, Brent and Kelly. Charles Lee Douglas was born August 23, 1952 in Atlanta.

PETE BABCOCK

Vice President/General Manager

Beginning his fifth season as the Hawks' Vice President/General Manager, Pete Babcock is committed to continuing his goal of maintaining a competitive and exciting balance in the hopes of keeping Atlanta's basketball fortunes among the NBA's elite.

That objective was accomplished last season as the Hawks posted a franchise-tying 57-25 record, which resulted in the franchise's first Central Division championship under his direction.

One of the league's highly-respected front office individuals, Babcock was named to his current position on February 14, 1990, taking over the basketball operational duties from Stan Kasten, who retained his title of team president.

The 45-year-old Babcock, who came to Atlanta from the Denver Nuggets, oversees the daily management and direction of the basketball team, including the procurement of players through trades, free agency and the collegiate draft.

While Babcock concluded his 5 1/2 seasons in Denver as the team's general manager, he also held the positions of director of player personnel, vice president of basketball operations, and president/general manager during his tenure.

His system for analyzing college and professional players not only involves basketball in terms of skills, but also includes a series of tests, both physical and mental. His approach puts each player through an exhaustive screening process coupled with extensive research into his background, giving the staff plenty of information of the "total" player.

During his tenure, the Nuggets won two division championships and appeared in 46 playoff games, including the Western Conference Finals (1984-85). Following a franchise record number of victories (54) in 1987-88, Babcock was voted by his peers as runner-up for NBA Executive of the Year.

Following six years of regional scouting for the New Orleans Jazz, the Los Angeles Lakers and the Milwaukee Bucks, Babcock was hired by the San Diego Clippers in 1980 as an assistant coach and was elevated to Director of Player Personnel two years later. In 1984, he became Vice President of Basketball Operations.

A political science major at Arizona State (graduated in 1971), he earned his masters from ASU in 1976. Instead of pursuing his political aspirations, he began coaching and teaching at the high school level in Phoenix.

Actively involved in community-related matters, Babcock has worked on substance abuse and gang-related issues, the Special Olympics and many youth-oriented programs. In 1989, he spoke before a Congressional committee on the topic of increasing the budget for the National Institute on Drug Abuse, and was honored in a White House ceremony by President Ronald Reagan for his contributions in assisting Native American youth.

During the 1992-93 season, Babcock was named Sports Personality of the Year by the Georgia Special Olympics for his on-going involvement with Special Olympics.

Peter Heartz Babcock was born May 12, 1949 in Bangor, Maine. He and his wife Yo have two daughters, Amy and Katie, and they live in Marietta. His brothers are also involved in basketball operations on different levels, as Rob is the director of player personnel for the Minnesota Timberwolves, and Dave is currently the head coach at Arizona Western College.

Head Coach

Armed with a five-year contract (signed on June 1, 1993), Lenny Wilkens came to the Atlanta Hawks seeking considerable improvement from a franchise that suffered several lean years with their overall record, and a lack of interest from local followers of NBA basketball.

Needless to say, it didn't take this long-time NBA architect a great deal of time to construct yet another amazing formula, resulting in order:

a franchise-tying 57-25 record (best since 1986-87);
the Central Division Championship (Atlanta's first since 1986-87)
the best record in the Eastern Conference (along with New York), which gave the Hawks the homecourt advantage throughout the Eastern Conference Playoffs;
a franchise record 36 victories at home (The Omni);
a franchise record for wins against Atlantic Division teams (21), Eastern Conference teams (42), and a team record-tying 21 wins against Central Division opponents;
an Atlanta record 96.2 points allowed (the first time the Hawks held the opponents under 100 ppg during the regular season), which was also the 4th-best defensive effort in the league last season;
915 steals (2nd in the NBA) -- one shy of the team record;
1,465 turnovers forced (2nd in the NBA);
.455 opponent FG percentage (8th in NBA);
an improved 5.48 blocked shot average (up from 3.39 a year ago, which ranked last in the NBA);
and more fans in the stands, as Atlanta averaged 13,335 (546,749 total) on the season, an increase from the 1993-94 figure of 11,981 (491,229).

With the best first-year finish in Hawks history (after many pundits picked Atlanta to finish in the middle to bottom of the Central Division race), Wilkens (the seventh full-time head coach in Atlanta history) earned the first of many of his post-season awards on April 25, when he was named Basketball Weekly's Coach of the Year. In addition to also receiving similar honors from The Sporting News, Basketball Digest and the 1994 Victor Award from the City of Hope/Sport Magazine, Wilkens was the recipient of the 1994 IBM/NBA Coach of the Year award for the first time in his outstanding 21-year career.

He ended the 1993-94 season as the second winningest coach in NBA history with 926 wins, becoming only the second coach in league history to record 900 career wins (vs. Orlando on February 2). With a career record of 926-774 (.545), Wilkens enters the 1994-95 season 12 wins behind Arnold "Red" Auerbach's NBA record of 938 career coaching victories. Wilkens has recorded seven seasons of 50-plus wins as an NBA head coach (52 in 1978-79 and 1981-82, 54 in 1992-93, 56 in 1979-1980, and 57 in 1988-89, 1991-92 and 1993-94).

(*) Holding the distinction of having participated in more games (2,975 at the end of the 1993-94 season) as a player and/or head coach than anyone else in league history (when you factor in regular season, playoff and all-star games), Wilkens played in 1,150 games over his 15-year NBA career, and at the end of last season, coached in 1,825 games [*compiled by NBA historian Harvey Pollack].

During his seven-year career in Cleveland, Wilkens guided the Cavaliers to 50 or more wins on three occasions, including a record of 54-28 (.659) in his final year (1992-93). He resigned his position as head coach on May 24, 1992, a few days after the Cavs were eliminated by the Chicago Bulls in the Eastern Conference second round playoff series.

Under Wilkens, the Cavs recorded one of the greatest resurgences in NBA history. He took a franchise that won 29 games in 1985-86 and transformed it into a veteran team with three All-Stars that posted 50+ wins in three of the last five seasons, including franchise records of 57 wins in 1988-89 and 1991-92. In addition, Cleveland qualified for the playoffs in five of his last six seasons, while ascending to the 1992 Eastern Conference Finals.

The 1992-93 campaign was one of chart-climbing for Wilkens, who on March 26 at Philadelphia became the winningest coach in Cleveland history, as he notched win 305 to surpass Bill Fitch (he concluded his seven years with a 316-258 (.551) record).

With his career NBA playoff coaching record at 60-61 (.496), Wilkens' 60 wins ranks him seventh on the all-time NBA coaching list, and third among active coaches. He has led his teams into the playoffs in 12 of his last 16 years as a head coach.

He joined the Cavaliers in June 1986, becoming the 10th coach in the history of the franchise, after serving as the General Manager of the Seattle SuperSonics during the 1985-86 season. He is a 16-year veteran as a head coach in the league, while also having served as a player-coach for five seasons (1969-1976). Wilkens has coached 1,700 regular season NBA games, over 21 seasons, which ranks third on the all-time list of games coached.

On March 15, 1992 against Denver, he joined Auerbach, Jack Ramsay, Dick Motta and Bill Fitch as one of the five NBA coaches to win 800 games.

A well-respected NBA veteran, Wilkens had the longest tenure of any NBA coach (with the same team) until his departure in Cleveland. He displays the same traits that characterized his career as a player — his outstanding work ethic, his ability to build good working relationships, and his ability to think on the court.

He enhanced his place in the basketball world during the summer of 1992, when he worked as an assistant on the United States Olympic Men's Basketball Team. Wilkens joined Head Coach Chuck Daly and assistants Mike Krzyzewski and P.J. Carlesimo in leading the "Dream Team" to the Gold Medal in Barcelona, Spain, as they breezed through their eight games of competition.

In addition to serving as the head coach of four NBA All-Star Games (most recently the Eastern Conference coach in the 1994 All-Star Game in Minneapolis, where he evened his coaching record at 2-2), Wilkens received his most memorable honor on May 9, 1990 when he was enshrined in the Naismith Memorial Basketball Hall of Fame in Springfield, Massachusetts.

He previously served as a player-coach for Seattle in 1969-72, and for the Portland Trail Blazers from 1974-75. He returned to Seattle as head coach midway through the 1977-78 season, and remained as the head coach through the 1984-85 campaign before moving to the front office as general manager.

The Sonics made the playoffs in six of the last eight seasons under Wilkens. They advanced to the World Championship series in 1978 and won the NBA Championship in 1979, with a 4-1 series victory over the Washington Bullets.

Wilkens enjoyed a 15-year playing career in the NBA, and he ranks among the all-time leaders in assists, games played, minutes played, and free throws made. He was named Most Valuable Player of the 1971 All-Star Game in San Diego.

A first-round choice in the 1960 Draft, Wilkens spent his first eight NBA seasons as a member of the St. Louis Hawks. In 1968, Wilkens was traded to Seattle (for Walt Hazzard), where he spent the next four seasons. Then in 1972, he became a member of the Cavs when he was acquired along with Barry Clemens in exchange for Butch Beard. Wilkens represented the Cavaliers in the 1973 All-Star Game, in a season when he averaged 20.5 points and 8.4 assists per game. He concluded his playing career with the Trail Blazers in the 1974-75 season as a player-coach.

Wilkens played his college ball at Providence College, where he led his freshman team to a 23-0 record. In his junior year, the Friars lost in the semifinals of the National Invitational Tournament, but in his senior season (1959-60), Providence reached the NIT finals before losing to Bradley. He was named the tourney's MVP and was a first-team selection to two All-American teams. Wilkens was named the Outstanding Player in the New England area in 1960 and in 1961, he was named to the Rhode Island Heritage Hall of Fame. Wilkens graduated from Providence College with a degree in economics.

In March 1988, he was selected to the NIT-NIKE Hall of Fame, joining such basketball legends as George Mikan, Tom Gola, Walt Frazier, Ernie Calverly, Maurice Stokes, Ed Macauley, and Larry Bird. He also has been elected to the New York City Basketball Hall of Fame and the Brooklyn (N.Y.) Hall of Fame.

In 1979, Wilkens received several awards. He was named the City of Hope Sportsman of the Year, the Congressional Black Caucus Coach of the Year, the CBS Coach of the Year and the Black Publisher of America Coach of the Year. In 1980, he received the Urban League-Whitney Young Outstanding Citizen Award and was awarded a Doctorate of Humanities degree from Providence.

A former vice-president of the NBA Players Association (1961-69), Wilkens is currently the president of the NBA Coaches Association.

This past August, Wilkens joined several NBA executives and players on a week-long trip to South Africa, where they conducted clinics and workshops with young people and coaches from the Capetown and Johannesburg areas.

Leonard Randolph Wilkens was born October 28, 1937 in the Bedford-Stuyvesant section of Brooklyn, New York. He served in the Army Quartermaster Corps as a Second Lieutenant from May 1961 to November 1962. Lenny and his wife Marilyn have three children (Leesha, Randy and Jamee), and one grandchild (Ashley, born this past September to his daughter Leesha and husband Craig Lipp) and during the season they reside in Atlanta.

DICK HELM

Assistant Coach

Beginning his second year in Atlanta and his 10th with Head Coach Lenny Wilkens, is assistant coach Dick Helm. Helm has previously spent time as an assistant with Wilkens on both the Cleveland Cavaliers' (seven years) and the Seattle SuperSonics' (one year) coaching staffs.

Helm brings over 30 years of basketball experience to the Hawks' bench and understands the game from both a playing and instructional perspective.

A graduate of Illinois' Wheaton College in 1955, Helm served as class president while gathering honors in basketball, football and track. A member of Wheaton's "Hall of Honor," he always played on a winning team for the Crusaders.

Following graduation, Helm earned a master's degree in administration of education and physical education from Michigan State University before serving a two-year stint in the U.S. Army at Fort Bragg, NC. His coaching career began at Wheaton's Central High School. After 14 successful years as both a high school coach and administrator, Helm entered the collegiate ranks to serve as head basketball coach and athletic director for the Judson College Eagles in Elgin, IL.

After three years at Judson, Helm returned to Wheaton College as head basketball coach for an eight-year stint, 20 years following his graduation. During the 1983-84 season, he served as assistant basketball coach for North Central College in Naperville, Illinois, helping the Cardinals to their first-ever NCAA Division III tournament appearance while at the same time scouting for the Seattle SuperSonics. To recognize his contribution to the sport of basketball in Illinois, Helm was named to the Illinois Basketball Hall of Fame in April 1988. During the fall of 1992, he was elected to the Tuscola, Illinois High School Hall of Fame for athletics.

In the summers of 1990 and 1991, he was enlisted to make a tour of Western Australia as he conducted coaching clinics and shared his basketball expertise with the Perth Wildcats and other State League basketball teams. After his initial visit, the Perth Wildcats went on to win the Australian National Basketball title in the 1990-91 and 1991-92 seasons.

Helm has written columns for Letterman Magazine and the National Association of Basketball coaches Journal. He is an active member of the Fellowship of Christian Athletes (F.C.A.) and has served as a speaker for the National Football League and Major League Baseball Chapels. In May 1990 Helm was honored by the F.C.A. as the 1990 Ohio Sportsman of the Year.

Helm, 61 (born February 9, 1933), and his wife Andrea are the parents of seven children, four sons and three daughters: Robyn, David, Doug, Karen, Steve, Stan and Amy.

BRIAN WINTERS

Assistant Coach

Winters, a veteran of 17 NBA seasons as a player or a coach, spent his first nine years in the league as a player with the Los Angeles Lakers (1974-75) and Milwaukee Bucks (1975-83).

In his first year in the league, Winters earned a berth on the NBA All-Rookie Team after scoring 11.7 points in 68 games. After that season, he was obtained by the Bucks along with Junior Bridgeman, Dave Meyers and Elmore Smith, in exchange for Kareem Abdul-Jabbar and Walt Wesley.

Over his career, Winters scored 10,537 career points (16.2 scoring average), and became one of only seven former Bucks players to have their numbers retired (on October 28, 1983) — he joined Oscar Robertson, Jon McGlocklin, Bob Lanier, Junior Bridgeman, Sidney Moncrief, and Kareem Abdul-Jabbar.

Prior to being drafted in the first round of the 1974 Draft by the Lakers (the 12th pick overall), Winters enjoyed an outstanding career at the University of South Carolina. In his final season with the Gamecocks he earned All-America honors after leading USC to a 22-win season, and concluded his career as a member of the school's "1,000-point Club" after totalling 1,079 points. After graduating, Winters went on to earn his master's degree in education at South Carolina.

The Queens, New York, native played his high school ball at Archbishop Molloy in Jamaica, New York. Winters was named a Prep All-American, and led his team to the New York City title during his junior year and to the runner-up spot as a senior.

Winters, who enjoys working crossword puzzles and is a 12-handicap golfer who has shot a 77 at Tanglewood County Club in Bainbridge, Ohio, began his coaching career at Princeton University, where he spent two seasons (1984-86) as an assistant.

THE HISTORY OF THE ATLANTA HAWKS

From Milwaukee, to St. Louis, to Atlanta.

It was a setting made for Mark Twain. A banjo box gymnasium called Wharton Field House seating 6,000 on hardwood benches in a city, or should we say three cities, straddling the Mississippi River is where the Atlanta Hawks have their roots.

They were known as the Tri-City Blackhawks, one of the original members of the National Basketball Association after a mid-summer merger in 1949 of the 12-year-old National Basketball League and the four-year-old Basketball Association of America formed the new league.

The Illinois cities of Moline and Rock Island and Davenport, Iowa across the river formed the formal name of the neophyte Blackhawks, coached by Roger Potter.

In the opening game at Wharton Field House, the Blackhawks beat the old Denver Nuggets, 93-85. But after a string of six losses, Potter became the first former coach of the franchise, as he was replaced by Red Auerbach.

The first edition of the Blackhawks made the playoffs, despite being six games under .500, but dropped out in the first round to the Anderson Duffey Packers. Then the coach, better known as Red Auerbach, left for Boston and many green-and-white World Championship banners.

After two years and a grammatical change to Tri-Cities, the Blackhawks packed their bags and moved to Milwaukee. They shortened the nickname to the Hawks and struggled for four years, never winning more than 27 games and finishing last each season. But it was in Milwaukee where the Hawks made a draft choice that would solidify the franchise for years to come.

His name was Bob Pettit. A first-round draft choice from Louisiana State in 1954, Pettit played his entire 11-year career with the Hawks, moving with the club to St. Louis in 1955. He wrote nearly every record in the Hawks' record book and was a four-time MVP of the annual NBA All-Star game, more times than any other player in history.

From 1957 through 1961, the Hawks won five consecutive Western Conference titles. Pettit was the star of the show and had an excellent supporting cast with Cliff Hagan, Slater Martin, Charley Share and Ed Macauley.

In 1958, the Hawks captured their lone World Championship by defeating Boston, four games to two. On three other occasions during the five-year stretch, the Hawks advanced to the finals only to lose to the Celtics each time.

For no apparent reason, the Hawks turned sour during the 1961-62 season and had it not been for the expansion of the Chicago Packers, the club would have gone from first to last in just one year. It was the only spring the Hawks failed to qualify for the playoffs in the 13 seasons they spent in St. Louis.

Fortunately for the franchise, Harry Gallatin, the former All-Pro with the New York Knickerbockers, took over the reins the following season and guided the Hawks to a second-place finish and back into the playoffs. For his efforts, Gallatin became the first recipient of the NBA's Coach of the Year award.

But Gallatin couldn't put the Hawks back on top and was replaced in the middle of the 1964-65 season by Richie Guerin, another Knick standout. The club again made the playoffs but was upset in the opening round by the Baltimore Bullets, a team which finished under .500 and eight games behind the Hawks during the regular season.

After the playoff loss, Pettit took off his uniform for the last time. He wound up his career with a 26.4 scoring average topped by a 31.1 mark during the disappointing '61-'62 campaign. His rebounding standards were even more incredible, a career average of 16.2, and a single-season high of 20.3 set during the 1960-61 season. He was named first-team All-Pro in his first ten seasons in the league, and second-team in his 11th and final season. In 1970, Pettit was enshrined in the Basketball Hall of Fame, and his uniform #9 has been retired.

The Hawks were becoming a young team as was characterized by the early Pettit-led teams. A year later, Hagan was gone, representing the last remaining link to the '58 Championship team.

In their places were Lou Hudson, the number one pick in 1966, Zelmo Beaty, Joe Caldwell, Lenny Wilkens and Bill Bridges. By 1968, the Hawks added another Western Conference title with a record of 56-26 — at that time the best in the team's history — and Guerin became the Hawks' second Coach of the Year.

Then came the shocker.

During the broadcast of an Atlanta Braves baseball game, announcer Milo Hamilton told Atlanta fans the city was going to have a professional basketball team. It was, of course, the Hawks, a perennial NBA powerhouse, moving from St. Louis to Atlanta.

Bringing the team to the South were two of Atlanta's and Georgia's most respected gentlemen, businessman Thomas G. Cousins and former governor Carl E. Sanders. They acquired the club from Ben Kerner.

Skeptics viewed the move as one of disaster since Atlanta had no facility for professional basketball and noted that the area was a hotbed for football, and there was not room for both sports.

It goes without saying that they were wrong on both counts.

The Hawks received permission to play their games in Alexander Memorial Coliseum on the Georgia Tech campus until a new arena could be constructed. Five years later that realization came true when The Omni was completed.

Under Guerin, the Hawks were sensational the first two years in Atlanta. They won the Western Conference title again in 1970 and advanced to the conference finals both seasons before losing to the star-studded Los Angeles Lakers.

With the emergence of the American Basketball Association came the fall of the Hawks. The new league raided the NBA teams, offering big money to the NBA stars in order to build credibility. Beaty was the first to jump in 1969, and Caldwell followed a year later.

Though the Hawks drafted Pete Maravich, the college scoring champion from Louisiana State, in 1970, the team struggled into the playoffs the next two seasons. The club finished ten games under .500 each year and couldn't get past the first round of the playoffs.

For the 1972-73 season, the Hawks moved into The Omni, then a 16,500-seat structure, with a new coach, Cotton Fitzsimmons. Behind the 27.1 scoring average of Hudson, the Hawks responded to the new surroundings by reversing the record of the previous year.

The next year, however, the Hawks failed to make a playoff appearance for the first time in 12 seasons, and second in 19. Only another expansion team, this time the New Orleans Jazz, kept the club from plummeting into last place. The first move to rectify the situation was to trade Maravich to New Orleans for a slew of draft choices.

Owning the first and third selections in the 1975 NBA College Draft, the Hawks chose David Thompson from North Carolina State and Marvin Webster from Morgan State. The NBA-ABA bidding war was at its peak and both players opted for the Denver Nuggets of the rival league.

Disaster soon followed.

The team lost 51 games, the most in thirteen years, and tumbled into last place for the first time since the team left Milwaukee. Fitzsimmons lost his job eight games from the end (1975-76).

The bright spot on the club was the emergence of John Drew, a second-round pick in 1974, as one of the premier offensive players in the league. Drew, who was Basketball Weekly's Rookie of the Year for 1974-75 while leading the league in offensive rebounds, averaged 21.4 points per game in his second season.

Rumors abounded that a move was imminent, and that a new owner was soon to purchase the team; but Hubie Brown, who coached the Kentucky Colonels to the 1975 NBA Championship, took over the team and promptly began to change the team's image. Midway through the 1976-77 season (January '77), half of the rumor became reality as R.E. "Ted" Turner, owner of the Braves and WTCG-TV, bought the club but stated the team would remain in Atlanta.

Hudson, an 11-year veteran of 730 NBA games, all in a Hawks uniform, was traded to Los Angeles (Lakers) as a youth movement was instituted. The #23 worn by Hudson was retired on the Lakers' first visit to the Omni, marking the second Hawks number to be retired. The two men so honored to that point, Pettit and Hudson, shared the Atlanta record for the most points scored in one game: 57.

Brown's first team suffered through a difficult initial year ('76-'77) by finishing in sixth place in their division with a 31-51 record. The team made a dramatic turnaround just one year later (1977-78), becoming the Cinderella team of the NBA, by advancing to the playoffs for the first time in five years. Brown was named NBA Coach of the Year as the fans became "Hubie's Sixth Man." In addition to Browr's coaching, Atlanta's move forward was sparked by two rookies who would have an impact in the team's history for years to come.

Seven-foot-two center Wayne "Tree" Rollins was selected by the Hawks in the first round of the NBA draft to secure the middle for the team. The Hawks' other impact pick was 6-2 guard Eddie Johnson. These twc additions, along with a proven veteran like Drew, would comprise the nucleus of the team.

The Hawks were agair playoff participants in 1978-79, but it was just a building block for the following season. Atlanta added forward Dan Roundfield that season and his play, along with the other players, brought the Central Division title to Atlanta in 1979-80. The squad finished with a 50-32 mark, and a first-place finish for the first time in nine years, and three players, Drew, Johnson and Roundfield, participated in the 1980 NBA All-Star game.

After just one season at the top, the Hawks fell 20 games under the .500 mark (1980-81), finishing 31-51 and out of the playoffs for the first time in four years.

Atlanta replaced Brown as coach with former New York/New Jersey Nets coach Kevin Loughery, and he led the Hawks back to the playoffs during both of his seasons in Atlanta (1981-82 and 1982-83) before leaving the team following his final year for another coaching position.

The Hawks' biggest move during Loughery's tenure was made off the court on September 3, 1982. The team traded players John Drew and Freeman Williams plus cash to the Utah Jazz in exchange for Dominique Wilkins, who they had selected that year in the NBA draft. Wilkins, a former All-American player at the University of Georgia, was a unanimous choice to the NBA All-Rookie first team in his rookie season, which was a preview of coming attractions.

Former Hawks assistant Michael Fratello was named to succeed Loughery as the Atlanta franchise's fifth head coach, and he promptly led the Hawks to their third consecutive playoff appearance in 1983-84.

Seeking to change their fortunes and join the NBA elite teams, Atlanta implemented their second youth movement. The Hawks introduced a three-year rebuilding plan in 1984-85 that would hopefully bring the team closer to a championship.

The movement started with the Hawks dealing Roundfield to the Detroit Pistons for forwards Cliff Levingston and Antoine Carr and two future draft pics. Roundfield concluded his six-year career with three All-Star seasons and a 17.6 points-per-game average. In addition to acquiring the youthful forwards, Atlanta drafted another big man in 7-0 center Kevin Willis of Michigan State. Willis' size and speed for an inside player would give the Hawks added depth in the frontcourt. The task of rebuilding was a long and difficult process for Fratello and the Hawks that season as the club finished 34-48 and out of the playoffs for only the second time in eight years.

As a result of missing the playoffs, there was some consolation as the team prepared for the '85-'86 season. The Hawks were allowed to participate in the NBA's first draft lottery (where the seven teams not making the playoffs were allowed to draw for the top seven picks in the 1985 draft), and with the fifth selection, Atlanta grabbed another seven-footer, SMU's Jon Koncak.

One of Atlanta's interesting free agent signings that season was 5-7 guard Anthony "Spud" Webb from N.C. State. A ciminutive athlete who defied the odds of making an NBA roster, Webb electrified fans throughout the league with his speed and incredible jumping ability (42 inches). That talent was showcased at the 1986 NBA All-Star Weekend, as Webb defeated his teammate and defending champion Wilkins in the '86 Slam Dunk contest.

Despite the loss of his "crown," Wilkins became the first Atlanta player to lead the NBA in scoring after averaging 30.3 points in '85-'86. He was also honored with his first appearance in the NBA All-Star game, and he was also named to the first-team All-NBA squad.

As a team, the Hawks tied franchise marks for most wins in a season (50) and best home record (34-7), and their 50-32 record, which was second in the Central Division, was the league's biggest turnaround (+16 games) from the previous campaign. For his efforts, Fratello was named Haggar/NBA Coach of the Year.

With the high expectations of the 1986-87 season awaiting them, the Hawks provided another year of outstanding play. A franchise record 57 wins capped an extraordinary season that saw Atlanta win the Central Division title. With the third-best record in the NBA, the Hawks established themselves among the league's elite teams, and with the combination of talent and athletic ability, they became one of the NBA's most popular teams. Wilkins finished second among the league's leaders in scoring with a 29.0 average, and was voted an All-Star starter for the first time in his career (his second appearance overall).

Several individual records were also established as Glenn "Doc" Rivers broke Atlanta's single-season assist record with 823, which also ranked him fourth in the NBA (10.0 average). Rollins moved into second place on the NBA's all-time blocked shots list, and Mike McGee set an all-time team mark for three-point goals (86) and attempts (229). The team made the playoffs for the second straight season and defeated Indiana in the first round, but faltered in the second round and lost to the Detroit Pistons.

The following season ('87-'88), the Hawks were replaced as division champs by Detroit, as Atlanta concluded the season four games out of first place with a 50-32 record. Highlighting the year's achievements was the first appearance by a Hawks coach in the annual NBA All-Star game, as Mike Fratello earned the spot after Atlanta placed the best record in the Eastern Conference over the first half of the season. Joining Fratello on the victorious East squad were Wilkins and Rivers, who scored 29 and nine points respectively.

An exciting seven-game second-round playoff series against Boston ended the Hawks' quest for a possible championship series berth, but Atlanta followers, who during the season set new attendance records in The Omni, anxiously awaited the start of the 1988-89 year as the Hawks made two off-season acquisitions to challenge for the NBA championship.

With the addition of Moses Malone and Reggie Theus, many prognosticators around the country believed the Hawks would pose a serious threat for the club's second NBA title, but that was prior to the monumental loss of Willis, who would miss all 82 games with a fracture in his left foot. Despite the absence of the seven-foot forward, Atlanta ended the season with its fourth straight 50-win campaign (which at that time was the longest current streak in the Eastern Conference.)

But what most will remember about the Hawks' '88-'89 season is the disappointing end to their title dreams, as the Milwaukee Bucks, who were beaten in all six regular season meetings with Atlanta, upset the Hawks in the first round of the NBA playoffs, three games to two.

The Hawks continued to struggle in 1989-90 as injuries plagued the team over much of the season, forcing them to miss the playoffs for the first time in five years. With a 41-41 record, Atlanta dropped to sixth place in the Central Division.

As a result, Michael Fratello resigned as head coach on April 23, 1990 and was replaced on May 22 by former NBA player and San Antonio Head Coach Bob Weiss.

On the strength of a 22-game home winning streak, Atlanta returned to the playoffs and pushed the two-time defending champion Detroit Pistons to five games before the curtains fell on the 1990-91 season.

Weiss' coaching approach wasn't lost on Hawks fans, as well as the rest of the league, and was certainly evident in December when he was named Digital/NBA Coach of the Month as Atlanta streaked to an 11-3 record.

The season also brought improved play from Wilkins, who soared to his sixth NBA All-Star Game appearance in addition to Player of the Week (in January) and Month (in February) honors.

While leading the team in scoring for the eighth straight season, he led the team for the first time in rebounding, and finished third in assists.

Unfortunately for the Hawks, January 28,1992 was the telling blow of the 1991-92 season. Prior to that evening's game against Philadelphia, Wilkins was selected as a reserve for the Eastern Conference All-Star Game and was looking forward to the opportunity to become the 17th player in league history to reach the 20,000-point level. In the second quarter (with 5:32 remaining), the 6-8 forward, whose 28.1 scoring average trailed only Chicago's Michael Jordan, suffered a ruptured right achilles tendon injury which forced him to miss the remainder of the season.

At the time, Atlanta's record was 22-20. Without their veteran, the Hawks finished 16-24 and surprisingly, only one game away from making the 1992 NBA Playoffs. It came down to the final regular season game of the season, and if not for a 112-108 loss at Cleveland, Weiss' squad would have capped off an injury-filled campaign by earning an opening round playoff berth against Chicago.

Not only were the Hawks without the services of Wilkins for the final 40 games, but the outside shooting of Travis Mays was absent for 80 games after he suffered tendon problems in his right ankle after the second game of the year.

While deserving of an All-Star position prior to replacing his fallen teammate, center Kevin Willis' production was worthy of praise. After years of unfulfilled expectations, he led Atlanta in scoring (18.3), rebounding (15.5) and minutes played (2,962). His work on the boards (which also placed him second in the NBA) enabled him to become Atlanta's all-time season rebounding leader (1,258), and his 33 rebounds against Washington was an Atlanta game record.

The 1992-93 season saw the previous season's goal attained: the Hawks finished 43-39 and met the Chicago Bulls in the first round of the playoffs. An appearance in the playoffs had alternately seemed likely and impossible throughout this tumultuous season. To begin the season, Wilkins returned to the court after his career-threatening achilles injury to score his 20,000th point and become only the 17th NBA player to do so. Atlanta gained a true point guard from the New Jersey Nets as Rumeal Robinson was traded away for Nets guard Mookie Blaylock. Blaylock provided the leadership and ball distribution that the Hawks so desperately needed, and the season showed potential.

Although the first half of the season was spent in the depths of mediocrity, there were some bright spots. On February 2, Wilkins scored 31 points against Seattle to become the franchise's all-time leading scorer by breaking Bob Pettit's long-standing record of 20,880. Also in February, Wilkins made his eighth appearance on the Eastern Conference's All-Star Team. In March the team went 12-3 and Weiss was named NBA Coach of the Month. But that's where the team faltered. Unable to match their March efforts, the Hawks finished April with a 5-7 record and a number seven ranking for the playoffs. Slated to face the Bulls in the first round, the games went quickly, with Chicago sweeping the Hawks in three enroute to their third-straight NBA title.

Immediately after the season, the Hawks announced that Weiss would not have his contract extended. The search for a new coach began in April and ended on June 1, when former Cleveland Cavaliers Head Coach Lenny Wilkens rejoined the franchise. Wilkens, who spent eight years with the Hawks in St. Louis and enters the 1993-94 season 69 victories behind Arnold "Red" Auerbach's league-record total of 938 career coaching wins, brought longtime assistant coaches Dick Helm and Brian Winters with him in the move to Atlanta and began to look at the talent he was handed. With the draft at hand and a #15 first-round pick, Wilkens' options were not too plentiful. However, Wilkens and his braintrust selected Florida State's Doug Edwards, a 6-7 forward known for his defense and passing, a perfect complement to the Hawks' squad.

While it was believed Wilkens and his staff would improve the Hawks fortunes, no one imagined the results would be so immediate. The 1993-94 season brought the franchise's third Central Division championship, a 57-25 record (the best in the Eastern Conference), and the first IBM/NBA Coach of the Year award for Wilkens, who also earned his fourth All-Star coaching assignment by leading the Eastern Conference All-Stars during the 1994 Game in Minneapolis.

In addition to equalling the team record for wins in a season, the Hawks set a new Atlanta record for most home victories in a year with 36 and finished one win shy (with 21) of tying the team record for road triumphs.

The Hawks also established additional new team standards defensively (FG percentage allowed and opponents' scoring average), as Wilkens emphasized that fact repeatedly during the season. Individually, that effort led Blaylock, who finished third in the NBA in steals, to a first team all-Defensive honor, becoming the first Hawks player to earn that distinction since Wayne "Tree" Rollins did in 1983-84.

Blaylock's season was also highlighted by his first appearance in the NBA All-Star Game, joining fellow teammate Wilkins and the Hawks coaching staff on the Eastern Conference squad. For Wilkins however, his All-Star showing would be his last in an Atlanta uniform, when on February 24, the Hawks traded their future Hall-of-Famer and a number one draft pick to the Los Angeles Clippers for Danny Manning, ending a spectacular 12-year career in Hot-lanta. Wilkins, who began the 1994-95 season in Boston, concluded his days in Atlanta as the franchise leader in numerous categories including games played (882), minutes played (32,542), steals (1,245) , points scored (23,292) and scoring average (26.4).

Unfortunately for the Hawks, not only did they lose their most prolific scorer ever in Wilkins, but at season's end they were also without the services of Manning, who (as an unrestricted free agent) elected to take a contract offer from the Phoenix Suns. While it is uncertain as to how much Manning's departure could affect the Hawks, the addition of forward Ken Norman (obtained from Milwaukee) may fill the void.

As Atlanta looks toward the upcoming season, they are hopeful of maintaining the balance and success it established in 1993-94 enroute to becoming Central Division champions, while expecting a serious challenge to their title in a highly-competitive Divisional race this year from the likes of Chicago, Charlotte, Cleveland and Indiana.

ATLANTA HAWKS MEDIA INFORMATION

MEMBERS OF THE MEDIA:
Welcome to the 1994-95 edition of Atlanta Hawks and NBA basketball. As the Hawks enter their 27th year in Atlanta, the organization appreciates your efforts and extends its cooperation to assist you in your duties. In an effort to continue a smooth and efficient operation this season, the following rules have been established:

GENERAL: Additional Hawks information and photographs are available by contacting the Media Relations Department at (404) 827-3800. To send a FAX to the Hawks Media Relations offices, you may call (404) 827-4229.

CREDENTIALS: Single-game credentials (press and photo) must be requested to Arthur Triche no later than 12 noon the day before the game (Friday noon for Sunday games). Pre-arranged credentials may be picked up at the press door on the lower level beneath Gate B of the Omni Coliseum. Credentials are good for admittance to the arena, media room, and home and visiting locker rooms. Those regularly assigned to the Hawks and the opposing teams will be seated at courtside, and those requesting single-game credentials will be seated on a first-come, first-served basis. Guests are not allowed.

MEDIA: MEMBERS HOLDING HAWKS SEASON PASSES SHOULD NOTIFY THE MEDIA RELATIONS DEPARTMENT IF PLANNING TO COVER A GAME IN ORDER TO RECEIVE PROPER SEATING.

MEDIA LOUNGE: The Hawks Media Lounge is located to the left corridor of the press table (as you are seated), and left of the corridor which leads to the Hawks locker room. The Media Lounge will be open 90 minutes prior to game time, at halftime and following the game. We must limit press room usage to members of the media only when a valid Hawks press pass is presented. Telephones are available for filing purposes in the Media Lounge after the contest.

MEDIA PARKING: Since space is limited for media parking, the nearest parking availability is located across The Omni at the CNN/The Decks parking garage. It is recommended that you arrive early enough to acquire a parking spot.

SERVICES: Game notes will be available in the press lounge 90 minutes prior to game time, or at the table in the corner of the area adjacent to the Hawks dressing room. Games statistics (play-by-play, quarter stats and halftime box scores) will be delivered to the press table, while final boxes and fourth quarter play-by-plays will be available in the Media Lounge after the game.

PHOTOGRAPHERS: Season passes will be provided to accredited photographers from Atlanta-area daily newspapers and television stations. Photographers from weekly newspapers and magazines must request single-game passes from the Director of Media Relations. Freelance photographers wishing credentials must submit a letter citing a specific assignment from a publication to obtain working passes. Photographers are allowed only within the lines at each end of the court. Remember, spectators are seated directly behind you and court vision must not be hindered. In addition, photographers are not allowed in the Hawks' or opponents' locker room.

LOCKER ROOMS: In accordance with NBA policy, the Hawks locker room will be open to members of the media up to 45 minutes before game time, and 10 minutes after the end of the game. Only working members of the press with valid credentials will be admitted to the locker rooms. Media members are asked to refrain from asking for player autographs.

COMMUNICATIONS SERVICES: The Hawks provide communications/facsimile service in the auxiliary press offices after the game, please check with a member of the Hawks Media Relations staff to see if there is a fee attached.

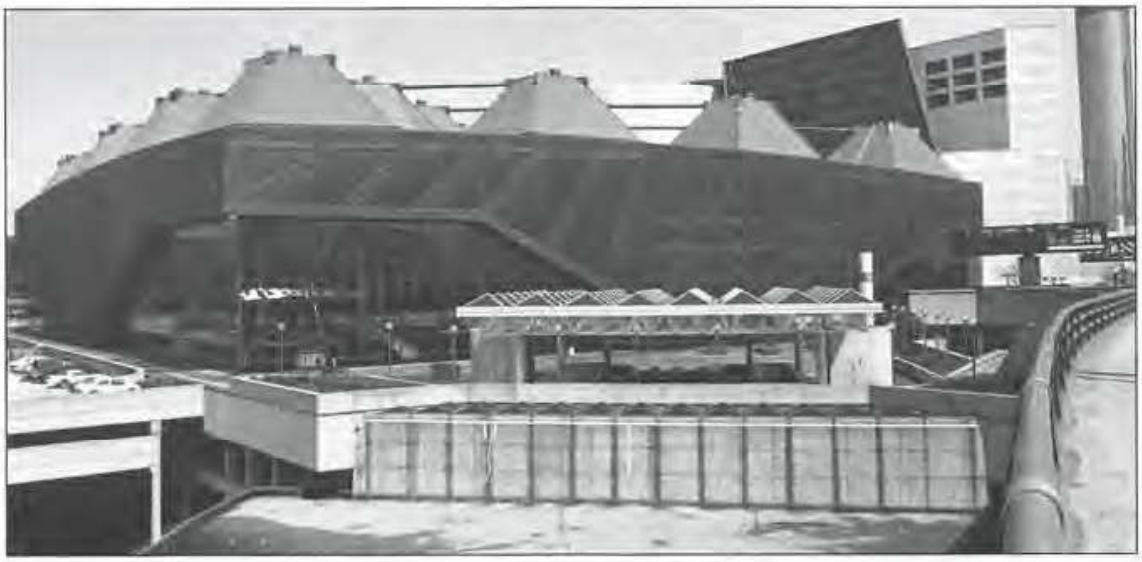
THE OMNI

ATLANTA'S HOME COURT
THE OMNI



The Omni opened its doors for the first time in October of 1972. Since then an eclectic blend of events including professional and collegiate basketball, family shows, the Ringling Brothers Barnum & Bailey Circus, wrestling, motor sports, tennis, concerts, and many more have attracted more than 30 million patrons through The Omni gates. The seating capacity for The Omni is 16,368.

Over the years, The Omni has been proud to host a number of prestigious events, including the 1988 Democratic National Convention, the 1980 U.S. Figure Skating Champions, the 1977 NCAA Final Four Tournament, the ACC Tournament, the SEC Tournament, the 1984 Davis Cup semifinals vs. Argentina, and the 1993 NCAA Women's Final Four.

Constructed at a cost of $17 million in private funding, The Omni was built and operates without tax subsidies. Turner Broadcasting System has a long-term lease to manage the facility.

The Omni is on a 9.5 acre site. It is 362 feet square, 130 feet high equivalent to a 12-story building. It contains 337,000 square feet equivalent to approximately 7.5 acres.

The concrete floor on which the basketball court is placed houses 55,000 linear feet (10.5 miles) of refrigerant piping to freeze the floor for ice skating events such as Disney On Ice and The Olympic and World Figure Skating Champions.

The unique roof structure is called an "Ortho-Quad-Truss," and consists of 25 "pods," providing a column-free span of 360 feet in both directions.

In the fall of 1979, Hawks and Omni patrons were treated to a new, state-of-the-art public address/music sound system. The concert-quality system consists of four "directional" clusters with a total of 16 bass horns, 32 mid-range horns, and 12 high-range horns.

Other Omni fan-enhancement additions include the two colorized Applause Meters/Matrix Boards and expanded center-hung scoreboard which informs patrons of individual players' points and foul totals.
